

PSA Annual Meeting and Christmas Party
December 2, 2011, 5:00pm
Philippine Social Science Center (PSSC) Auditorium
Commonwealth Avenue, Diliman, Quezon City

Theme: “Starry, Starry Night”
A Glitzy PSA Christmas Celebration

“Stars may come and stars may go up there in that starry space
but on December 2, 2011
new stars will shine
for an evening of fun, music, and fashion”

The Philippine Statistical Association (PSA) invites its members to an event that promises a feast to the eyes and the senses. Glitz, glamour and good times will set the mood as the country’s statistical community gathers together for its annual yearend meeting and celebrate early Christmas in a spectacularly entertaining affair.

Dubbed as “Starry, Starry Night”, a glitzy PSA Christmas celebration, the event will surely be an affair to remember this December.

Everyone is encouraged to come in the best fashionable attire to showcase that statisticians are also stylish, sexy, gorgeous and trendy, contrary to a common notion that they are timid, simple, and meek. The best dressed male and female PSA members will be proclaimed as “Stars of the Night” and will receive a special award and a cash prize.

Aside from being a glittering night, the event will once again be the center stage for the best talent that our individual members or staff of institutional members will show in a friendly competition aimed at fostering camaraderie thru total entertainment. The winner in the talent showdown whether in singing, dancing and other forms of entertainment will receive a special award and a cash prize.

Stars shine... stars glow... stars glitter...
Bring out the star in you!

Come and join us on December 2, 2011 as PSA highlights the starry state of statisticians in celebrating Christmas.
